FY23 Board Report / Director Evaluation

Woltjer thanked the Board for sharing their Council report. He said with their approval, he will send the report to the City Administrator and Mayor. McSweyn wasn't certain the report was final or that the entire Board had viewed the compile version. Woltjer said he would put it into a Word doc (from the email) and send it to the Board after the meeting. Woltjer noted the Director's evaluation is discussed and written up among the Board members "behind the scenes." Once it is finalized, Chairperson Smith can send it to Assistant City Administrator Kevin Iffland. He said it is up to the Board if they choose to share their evaluation with him. Young said he didn't remember seeing anything regarding the evaluation. Paulson looked back and determined she had only sent it to Smith and Samuelson. She would forward the email to all the board members after the meeting. McSweyn stated the Board could take an email vote to decide whether to share the evaluation or not.

BPL Statistics

Thomas gave the Board two flyers depicting library stats from FY22 and FY23. Cardholders, items borrowed, and programming attendance are just three areas showing significant increases. Thomas noted the library visits for FY23 are not accurate due to downtime taking old gates out and installing new gates at the library entrance. Paulson inquired if the collection items number ever goes down. Woltjer said the BPL has a great weeding policy. Items go out, but new items are always coming in as well. He noted there is only so much space in the library, so the physical item count cannot continually increase. Samuelson noted she has heard great comments from patrons regarding the Height's book locker, but also stated hearing there is difficulty seeing the screen sometimes. Thomas replied that she is aware of the sun issue and is working on solutions. Currently a screen cover has been added to help. The Board voiced approval of the statistics reports and felt the report would be good to share with others, such as Council and the public.

BPL/Mgmt Updates

- a. Megan Thomas, Information Systems Coordinator: Thomas said the new RFID gates are installed and functioning, the library is hosting 12 Property Tax Rebate classes during the month of September, Locker #3 is progressing – next step is pouring the concrete pad, and details are being finished for Locker #4 at the Children's Clinic on the west end. Thomas also said there were seven responses to the Sorter and Conveyance RFP. The committee has chosen one for Council's approval at the upcoming meeting.

Jaclynn Reaves, Patron Services Manager: Reaves told the Board the vacant LSSII job posting closes tomorrow. Reaves also provided volunteer statistic comparison. There were 161 volunteer hours logged for calendar year 2022. So far in 2023, 187 volunteer hours have been logged. Reaves said the first Spanish teaching program went well last week. It immediately followed her Spanish speaking program. She is still looking for volunteers to teach other foreign languages.

Jamie Bratlie, Library and Facility Coordinator: Bratlie told the Board the new Facilities I position has been filled. The new team member will start the beginning of October. Regarding the north door repair and the scrim repair, we are waiting for the work to continue and begin respectively. There are no set dates.

Kelsie Rubich, Assistant Director: Rubich said the September newsletter is available highlighting the many programs happening at the library, such as daycare story time, senior art program, Spanish story time, and yarn crafting for ages 6 – 9 years. The 2nd annual Library Con is happening on September 30. The bike library is wrapping up the season at the end of September, except for a couple fall events – Harvest Fest and Trick or Treat. Rubich said September is library card sign-up month, and the BPL is giving out welcome bags to new cardholders, as well as a chance to win one of five Kindle Fires. Smith asked if the library has ever been a part of Saturday Live, and stated it might be a good event to join or send the bookmobile to.

The board members all had great comments and feedback, stating it was excellent training with great ideas and beneficial tips that could be used both professionally and personally. P.J. Smith inquired if she could watch the training too. Woltjer told her yes, at 11:00 am before the Board meeting the training will be shown. Chairperson Smith noted she cannot make the trainings before the meetings and asked if the training could be sent to the members who cannot attend those trainings. Woltjer told her he would find a way to send the large Safer Libraries file to the interested board members.

b. Library Foundation, Leslie Modrow: Modrow told the Board she is retiring and introduced Cody Rose. Mr. Rose came joined the Foundation on September 1 and is training with Modrow until she retires. Rose told the Board about himself. Smith welcomed him and asked the Board to introduce themselves to him as well. Modrow told the Board One Book Billings is in progress. She explained the new book distribution policy.
