Discussion continued on the Gainan’s Building Project. Hines distributed a handout which addressed questions raised from a Gazette editorial regarding the library project. He also noted that an informational website has been developed where people can get answers to their questions. The site will feature a “Contact your Council Representative” form with a pre-written letter that can be completed by the user and emailed to City Council members.

Cochran reported that today was the Library’s “going live” day on the Montana Shared Catalog. Ken Adams from the State Library, along with staff from Missoula and Flathead County public libraries were here to mentor staff as they went live.
